

What LearnPulse Is

LearnPulse is a self-paced AI skills training platform. Students learn prompt engineering, AI tools, and AI-assisted workflows through hands-on challenges that are graded in real time by Claude AI — not multiple-choice quizzes, actual practice with instant, specific feedback. Organisations license bulk seats to upskill their workforce, with an admin dashboard to manage who's enrolled and track progress.

HOW IT WORKS

1. Learner does the challenge

Each challenge is a realistic task — write a prompt, use an AI tool, build a small automation. No lectures to sit through first; learning happens by doing.

2. Claude AI grades it instantly

The learner's submission is scored 0–100 with specific, plain-language feedback on what worked and what to try differently — every single attempt, not just at the end of a module.

3. Pass to unlock the next challenge

Progress is gated on actually clearing the bar, not clicking "next." Points, streaks, and a leaderboard keep engagement up across a cohort.

4. Certificate on completion

A uniquely numbered, publicly verifiable certificate is issued per module — something a learner can put on LinkedIn and a manager can check is real.

CURRICULUM

A free introductory module is available to every registered user so an organisation can trial the format with a few people before committing seats.

PRICING

PLAN	WHO IT'S FOR	PRICE
Individual	Self-funded learners	$100 USD one-time (or pay in KES) — lifetime access
Organisation — 20–49 seats	Small teams / single department	$65 per seat
Organisation — 50–149 seats	Mid-size company / institution	$50 per seat
Organisation — 150+ seats	Enterprise / government agency	$35 per seat (custom quote above 300)

Why this undercuts the obvious alternative: Coursera for Business and Udemy Business typically run $300–400 per seat, per year. LearnPulse licenses are one-time, not an annual renewal — the cost comparison for a 100-seat rollout isn't close.
